

The First Immortal: Dark Angel

by John Halas, ScreenwritersForHire.Com

Based on the book, The First Immortal: Dark Angel

by Stone Paltin

Logline

After disobeying God, Adam and Eve are cast from the Garden of Eden and plagued by a series of consequences of their disobedience, most notably in the hand of Cain, their least favored son.

Characters

Adam (M) - The first man and father created by God and the progenitor of the human race. He is over eleven feet tall and is the husband of Eve. After being cast from the Garden of Eden, Adam sees to the general welfare of his descendants. Although he blames Eve for leading him to eat the forbidden fruit, Adam has always been a great husband and a role model to children and grandchildren. Adam's weakness is reflected in his preferential treatment of Abel while neglecting Cain, his first son, which leads to his eventual loss of his two sons. Because of his sin, death comes upon all humankind.

Eve (F) - The first mother on Earth created by God from Adam's loins. She is the most beautiful woman on Earth with sparkling blue eyes, long, honey blonde locks, and a pointed nose. Lucifer tempts her, and she persuades Adam to join her in eating the forbidden fruit. This eventually leads to their expulsion from the Garden of Eden.

Enoch (M) - Adam's grandson. He is a little, energetic boy who grows into a brave young man. He is only ten when he first displays an act of bravery by single handedly rescuing his sisters from the hands of a Dark Lord. Marked by a strong sense of spirituality, courage, and a deep belief system, he begins developing his level of faith at a relatively young age. God begins to speak to him as his faith strengthens over time, and he begins to have a face-to-face conversation with the Creator just like his grandparents did in the past.

Cain (M) - The first and estranged son of Adam and Eve. Born while his parents are struggling with their marriage, he suffers a lack of affection and love from his father, who sees him as a rival for getting all of his wife's attention. The arrival of his younger brother, Abel, eventually makes even his mother neglect him while focusing all of her attention on the newly born. Driven by hatred and jealousy for his sibling, he eventually murders him and consequently gets driven out of his parents' house.

Lucifer (M) - Known to many by numerous names, he was created by God as a beautiful, intelligent, powerful, and angelic being. However, his attributes lead him to pride. He disobeys God and falls from grace. Following his fall, he leads a cosmic revolt against his Creator and goes into the world, tempting man to sin against God so he can claim them in his kingdom of darkness.

Belial (M) - A fiendish rider, also one of the fallen angels who work for Lucifer. He is power-hungry, reckless, covetous, and cunning. He attempts to kidnap two granddaughters of Adam but fails. On getting back to Lucifer, he lies and is rewarded with a promotion in the City of the Light. With his tricks, he causes a rift between Lucifer and a senior dark rider, Apolodon.

Angela (F) - A beautiful, innocent young girl still in the flower of womanhood who is on an escape mission from those after her innocence. She has blonde hair, dark brown eyes, and bronze skin.

Movie Concept

The First Immortal: Dark Angel is a fantasy-based movie revolving around Biblical characters. It's is an action-filled story that circles around, deception, lies, fall from grace, disobedience, greed, murder, power tussle, covetousness, love, lust, broken trust, betrayal, faith, spirituality, war, dark powers, as well as leadership.

The movie will encapsulate the biblical account of the eviction of the first couple from the Garden of Eden after being tempted by Satan to eat the forbidden fruit which God had warned them against and the consequences of their actions.

Three-act Summary

Prologue

- In the vast city of Abelton (named after Abel), it seems to be a bright, beautiful day. Suddenly, the atmosphere is disrupted by the invasion of Belial, accompanied by a monstrous creature from the land of the fallen ones. Adam immediately instructs Mahalial to sound the alarm horns, which signal danger to the rest of the city so they can seek safety. As expected, the people hurry to their various homes to seek shelter.

- Adam tries to stop the enemies with the spoken word of faith, but it seems not to work. His sin and unrighteousness have somehow created a distance between him and his Creator, and Adam does not seem to be in Yahweh's presence anymore. The Fallen One moves to abduct Adam's two granddaughters, Luna and Angel, who he lusts after for their flawless beauty, innocence, and purity.
- Despite sustaining various injuries caused by the missiles shot at him, the beastly creature is relentless. It picks up the two young maidens, ready to abscond. Suddenly, a young, energetic rider, Enoch, gets in the way and confronts the beast through spoken words of faith. The two girls are rescued, and the enemies flee back to the City of Light. The spectators are surprised at Enoch's feat.

Act One

- Several decades earlier...
- We go back several decades to see Adam and Eve, freshly expelled from the Garden of Eden. They start a family and give birth to Cain. Cain begins to take Eve's attention, and Adam is not happy, often venting his frustration on the boy. No matter how hard Cain tries, Adam is never satisfied. However, Cain always finds solace in the comfort of his mother's arms, who pampers and satisfies him with all of his needs.

- Things start to get worse for Cain when Abel is conceived. Adam completely neglects Cain while doting on Abel. Eve also starts giving Abel more attention. Cain is forced to step aside for the little one, give him the best portions of food, work harder, and give his parents more time with the baby. Whatever is being shared among the two siblings, Abel usually gets preferential treatment, depriving Cain of his privileges and rights as the elderly one.
- As a result, Cain begins to experience low self-esteem, fury, jealousy, envy, and feelings of rejection. He feels that he can never be worthy of the same attention, love, and affection that is constantly bestowed upon his brother. In addition to his lack of parental care and support, Cain also suffers God's rejection of his offerings while Abel's gets accepted. As a result, the normal hierarchy of the firstborn and younger child is turned upside down.
- Cain decides to kill his brother so he can move to the pedestal of their parent's attention and God's love. The devil informs Eve that Cain has murdered Abel. As a punishment, Adam drives Cain out of the house. Cain is cursed from the ground—he is no longer a farmer; he becomes a wanderer, exiled from the fruitful soil. He dwells outside of civilization until God shows him compassion and helps him settle in another land. However, Cain is still harboring hatred for Adam.
- Eventually, Cain starts his own family, and his army begins to grow. He is able to build a stronghold for himself and his descendants. He vows to make Adam face the consequences of his cold and hostile treatment toward him. Cain also begins to offer up women from his lineage to Lucifer and his fallen angels in exchange for beastly creatures, leading to unimaginable offspring. However, Lucifer becomes dissatisfied with the soiled women. He lusts after innocence and purity and decides to send Belial to attack Abel's lineage. Belial carries out the attack and kidnaps the girls, but they are rescued by Enoch, taking us back to the movie's opening scene.

- Adam asks Enoch how he pulled it off. Enoch explains in detail how The Almighty spoke to him to go and defend his sisters in the hands of the fallen ones. Adam gets enthralled and feels hopeful, reminiscing on the good, old, memorable days in the Garden of Eden with Eve when they had face-to-face conversations with the Creator.

Act Two

- Flashbacks show Adam and Eve enjoying God's presence in the Garden of Eden. One day, Lucifer appears in the form of a serpent and cons Eve into believing that they will become like God if they eat fruit from the forbidden tree. Eve foolishly eats some of the fruit and equally gives some to Adam. At that moment, their eyes open, and they suddenly feel shame at their nakedness. They sew fig leaves together to cover themselves. This prompts the Creator to cast them out of the Garden of Eden.
- God then curses all three; the man to a lifetime of hard labor followed by death, the woman to the pain of childbirth and subordination to her husband, and the serpent to go on his belly, eat dust and suffer the hostility of both man and woman.

- Back to the present, Adam commends Enoch for his foolish but selfless courage. Meanwhile, Belial is frustrated at his failed kidnap attempt. He leads the injured beast back home, desperately thinking of the excuses he will give to Lucifer for coming back empty-handed. At the same time, Cain holds a meeting with his descendants to discuss their loss of immortality. He recounts his experience while in negotiations with the Magistrates of the City of Light about the price of their women and how they have been compared with the fallen ones. Cain's son, Irad, thinks they are immortals, but Cain informs him that they are not.
- Cain shares the secret of immortality with the gathering—a forbidden fruit at the garden of Eden which they need to find. They are all convinced except Lamech. After the council meeting, Lamech goes back to his constituency and criticizes Cain for believing in the fairy Garden of Eden. He is convinced that Cain has gone mad and decides it is best to rebel against him and acquire his kingdom.
- Meanwhile, Enoch's spirituality grows faster as he bears no sin as a young child. He has a face-to-face conversation with the Most High, and his education begins earnestly. Adam sees in him a hope that has escaped him for centuries, and he begins to spend more time with him. Adam takes it upon himself to train Enoch, especially on the power of the spoken word of faith for speaking things into existence.
- Enoch gradually becomes a man, fully grown to ten feet. He also becomes a warrior and is saddled with the responsibility of leading troops to the war front. As usual, Eve sets on another two months trip to Carmel. Adam tries persuading her to stay back and spend more time with him, but Eve wouldn't listen. Belial lies to Lucifer about the new power he acquires on his last quest to Adam's abode and gets a promotion.

- The relationship between Cain and the fallen ones begins to grow stronger over time. Cain is proud of how well he is bonding with the fallen ones over the exchange of women in return for ogres, monstrous creatures, and dark powers. A flawlessly beautiful teenage girl, Angela, whose mother gets snatched by Cain, runs away from the village to escape being betrothed to the fallen ones. Unfortunately for her, she gets picked up by Lucifer himself.
- Cain's army continues to grow, and so does his hatred for Adam. He is happy that his sacrificial transactions with the fallen ones have earned him enough powerful creatures to attack the Adamites. His actual goal is to procure the Fruit of the Tree to Life located at the Garden of Eden (paradise) and become immortal. Still, he doesn't know the location of the garden and suspects it will be well-guarded, and he will have to use dark powers to access the garden.
- Angela is terrified at the thought of being wanted by Lucifer. She cries and prays to The Almighty that night. Afterward, she feels a deep sense of comfort and peace around her, and she sleeps off. Enoch walks into the tent accompanied by four riders and delivers Angela and the other young maidens. They flee into the forest, and Belial goes after them.
- Cain remembers that his estranged parents had once lived in the Garden of Eden. He had once overheard Adam telling Abel about the garden sometimes. He decides to send the dark riders to get his mother so he can ask her everything he needs to know about the Garden of Eden. At the same time, Belial is frustrated after his search of the countryside to bring back the fleeing maidens proves futile. He feels the young maidens must have gone back to their village, so he orders the soldiers to set an ambush at Angela's Homeland.

- Meanwhile, Angela is amazed at how the Adamites treat her and the other young maidens with utmost respect and dignity, unlike men from her hometown. She finds Enoch really attractive, and they fall for each other. Belial arrives at Angela's village and finds her alone taking her bath in the river. He rushes to capture her, but Enoch appears with his Maverick from behind just when Belial is about to take Angela. They get into a bloody fight which leaves Belial weak and wounded from Enoch's blasts. He wisely retreats and flees. However, Angela is killed in the process.
- Eve and her Entourage travel to Cain's abode as he orders. Cain sees them from afar and instructs Irad, his grandson, to kill every one of the Adamites except Eve. Irad obliges, but the Adamites fight back. Cain questions Eve about the Tree of Life. Knowing his son's level of temperament, Eve stylishly urges Cain to give her more time to allow her to think carefully and give him answers.

Act Three

- Adam receives the news of Eve's kidnap. Along with his grandson, Seth, they both travel to Carmel to bring her back. While Cain is still trying to negotiate with the Adamites, the legions of the dark, led by Apolodon, secretly arrive at his abode and kidnap Eve. A messenger brings the news to Cain, and, out of anger, he kills the messenger instantly.

- In his chamber, Apolodon thinks of how lucky he is to have Eve, the most beautiful woman in the world, under his roof. He reasons that with a woman like Eve by his side, his power and authority will rise exponentially, even higher than Lucifer. Eve senses the presence of the Prince of Demons as she bathes. She knows the presence of the devil and can never forget the horrible scent of the serpent who deceived her. She prays Adam comes to her rescue quickly.
- Lucifer disguises as Adam and comes to make love to Eve. Along the line, Eve begins to feel hurt and asks him to stop, but he wouldn't listen. She tries to resist him, but his masculinity overpowers her, and his eyes flash with a spark of light. Immediately, she realizes that it is not Adam. She twists and finally wakes up. Lucifer had done it again; she has just been defiled by the enemy. Eve barges into Apolodon's chamber to report. She demands to go back home to meet her husband. Apolodon agrees but urges her to allow his doctor to examine her to know if Lucifer has impregnated her so he can crush the eggs.
- Unknown to Eve, Apolodon has other evil schemes. While operating Eve's body, a deadly organism finds its way into her, which eventually ravages Eve's entire body and weakens her immune system. Adam brings Eve back from the City of the Light and begins to notice changes in Eve. She seems frail, sick, weak, and withdrawn. One evening, Adam finally asks her what exactly their estranged son, Cain, wanted with her. She tells him how Cain desires to have the fruit from the Tree of Life to himself and his descendants so they can become immortal.

- Just then, Adam gets the idea of using the fruit to heal Eve of her ailment. In the end, Cain loses his life while procuring the fruit of the Tree of Life in the Garden of Eden. Adam finds the fruit in Cain's bag, but it is too late as Eve is already dead back at home.
- The time comes for the sons of God to assemble before the Creator. The Lord asks for Lucifer's opinion on the Earth. Full of pride and arrogance, Lucifer belittles The Lord's creation and boasts that the humans God created are inferior to him; mere mortals and weak. He also boasts of how he has destroyed the first two humans, how their children revere him, and how the Earth will soon become his. "We shall see," the Lord proclaims!